PROFILE

Being placed in a high-pressure environment has allowed me to improve on a variety of skills, including communication (due to a large number of group assignments and projects, as well as having to communicate with people from various backgrounds as a result of attending an international school and university); leadership (due to being appointed team leader on numerous projects and being able to take charge when needed); and planning (due to being placed in a high-pressure environment). Completing my IT Varsity certificate in 2021 has ensured meeting project deadlines and assuring high-quality work, as well as being adaptable to any situation and employing whatever resources were available in addition to self-discipline through watching the lectures provided, completing projects, along with graded assignments.
